N

N and Ń. There are two different sounds for N in the Polish language, viz. N pronounced like the English N in the word NOUN; and N softened, corresponding to the French GN in the word BOURGOGNE, or the Italian GN, in OGNI.

N, stands for a proper name unknown, or which we do not care should be known, viz. Pan N, przez całe życie swoje robił tylko dwie rzeczy: rano jadł obiad, wieczorem wieczerzał, Mr. N never had but two occupations in his life: dining in the morning, and supping at night. Ń, enclit. following the prepositions, na, nad, do, po, za, w, z, as abridgment of NIEGO, or NIEJ, gen. and acc. of ON, ONA, see NAŃ, NADEN, DOŃ, POŃ, ZAŃ, WEN, ZEŃ.

NA! interj. here. Na, weź co ci się należy, here, take what I owe you.

NA, prep. which governs the loc. case when rest is expressed, and the acc. when motion is signified. On, upon; at, by, etc. Siedzi na stole, he sits upon the table. Na prawej ręce, on the right hand. Grać na harfie, na skrzypcach, to play on the harp, on the violin. Opierać się na łokciu, to lean upon the elbow. Stać na warcie, to be upon duty. Miałem kapelus na głowie, I had my hat on. Zdrów na ciele, ale chory na umyśle, well in body but sick in mind. Został schwytany na uczynku, he was taken in the fact. Jest trzecia na moim zegarku, it is three by my watch. Być na morzu, to be at sea. Na okręcie, on board a ship. Polegaliśmy na waszych obietnicach, we relied upon your promises. Na dniu osmym, on the eighth day. Na słońcu, in the sun. Jechać na łowy, to go a hunting. Nalozyc podatek na towary, to lay a tax upon commodities. Na wiadomość o jego przybyciu, upon the news of his coming. Wystawić na sprzedaż, to expose to sale. Wleść na drzewo, to get upon a tree. Na znak błogosławieństwa, in token of benediction. Dwa razy na dzień, twice a day. Na pierwszy widok, at the first sight. Wyłożył wiele pieniędzy na to dzieło, he spent a great deal of money upon that work. Na dwa cale od ziemi, within two inches of the ground. Na strzał armatni, within cannon-shot. To się sprzedaje na wagę, it is sold by weight. Nauczyłem się tego na pamięć, I got it by heart. Zaklinam cię na przyjaźń, I conjure you by our friendship. Uczy-nilem to na jego prośbę, I did it at his request. Spalić na węgiel, na popiół, to burn to a coal, to ashes. Bóg stworzył człowieka na obraz i podobieństwo swoje, God created man in his own image. Oprzeć się na łokciu, to lean on or upon the elbow. Ten dom wychodzi na dwie ulice, that house opens into two streets. Jest na wsiadaniu or na wyjeździe, he is about to depart, he is on the eve of departure. Kłaść się or przysięgać na Ewangelię, to swear upon the Gospel. Na tę wieść wyjechał, upon the advice given him, he set out. Brać co na siebie, to take upon one's self the event of a thing. Na prawo, na lewo, on the right hand, on the left. Wędka na ryby, an angling rod (for fishing). Iść na ryby, na ostrygi, to go a fishing for oysters, fish (that means also to go somewhere in order to eat oysters, fish). Nie ma na co spojrzeć, that is unworthy to be looked at. Cóż ty na to? what is your opinion of that? Spij na to dobrze, that must not take up your thoughts so much; you may sleep upon.

The preposition NA converts the imperfect verbs into perfect ones, and the verbs to which it is joined, convey an idea of sufficiency, plenty or abundance.
